Eurodoc Conference 2020 and Annual General Meeting ONLINE - SAVE THE DATE

This year's Eurodoc Conference "Open Up Your Science" and Annual General Meeting (AGM) will be held online. You can join the conference on 22-23 July 2020 and the AGM on 24-25 July 2020. During the conference, ECRs will discuss Open Science with policymakers, stakeholders and partners, including topics on Open Access, Open Data, research networking and the evaluation system. The conference is free of charge, registration is available here and more information can be found here. The registration to the conference ends on 17 July 2020 or earlier, when the maximum number of participants is reached.

Early Career Researchers with Disabilities in Times of Crisis: Equal Treatment to All?

Persons with disabilities represent 15% of the world population (over 80 million in Europe). Unfortunately, there is no such detailed data on Early Career Researchers (ECRs) with disabilities in Europe. There is also no data on how many ECRs with disabilities have had contracts terminated or suspended as a result of COVID-19. The Eurodoc Equality Working Group invites ECRs with disabilities to share their opinion about strategies universities developed for supporting working remotely, if they proved efficient and any suggestions for further improvement. Send your comments to equality@eurodoc.net

Eurodoc Presented at the Conference of INGOs

At the Special Online Session of the Conference of INGOs, Beata Zwierzyńska, Eurodoc General Board Member, talked about the major concerns of ECRs following the COVID-19 pandemic and offered some thoughts on the post-coronavirus reality, e.g. ECRs' research, fellowships' extensions. Broadcasts of the conference are available here.

Check Out the New Report on Actions on Skills, Training, and Career Development for Early Career Researchers

The new report of the European Union's H2020 Advisory Group for Marie Skłodowska-Curie (MSCA) Actions on Skills, Training, and Career Development, including recommendations on Open Science and Mobility for ECRs, is just published. Gareth O'Neill - former Eurodoc President - was one of the authors of the report. Full text of the report is available here.

Online Courses & Webinars

Advancing Sustainable Research Careers Courses: Research Ethics

The Erasmus+ OEdiverse Consortium invites ECRs to a series of pilot events and summer schools focused on Open Science, Mental Wellbeing, and Communicating Research. The first online course will be held on 6-8 July online and will be dedicated to research ethics. That workshop aims to help develop your skills in identifying the ethical issues that play into research, and will familiarize you with a structured sequence for arriving at ethically sound decisions. It will be dedicated to the ethical dilemmas that may arise in all stages of the research process, such as stating your research objective, data collection and analysis, and reporting and publishing your findings. More information and registration is available here.

Virtual Fair – Research in Germany

Interested in doing research in Germany? Register for this virtual career fair on 7 July 2020 to learn about career opportunities and research careers for ECRs. Meet more than 25 German universities and research institutions online. Find out more here and register here.
